

ABSTRACT

A hydrodynamic bearing system for use in spindle motors having a shaft and a bearing sleeve. At least one bearing member is mounted on outer surface of the shaft. A fluid trap member is further provided in the bearing system, the fluid trap member being integrated into the bearing member. A fluid trapping cavity is formed between the fluid trap member and a surface of the bearing member.